COMPANY TO BUILD HOTEL

WILL SOLVE OLD PROBLEM

New Corporation Has Option on Valuable Property in the Heart of Sierra Madre

Sierra Madre's hotel problem seems in a fair way to be solved by the erection of a new, thoroughly modern and attractive hotel building at a cost of approximately $75,000. The location will be in the business center of Sierra Madre. Present prospects indicate that the new hotel will be completed and ready to receive guests before the holidays next winter.

For the purpose of buying a suitable site and erecting the building, a corporation has been formed under the name of the Sierra Madre Hotel company. The officers are C. W. Mitchell, president; M. H. Bridle, vice president; A. S. Mead, secretary. These, together with C. S. Kersting and N. H. Hosmer, constitute the Board of Directors. The First National Bank will be treasurer. Capital stock named in the articles of incorporation is $150,000.

Options have been secured on a tract approximately 300x600 feet at the corner of Central and Baldwin avenues. The Central Avenue frontage is 600 feet with a uniform depth of 300 feet except where a rectangle is cut out at the southeast corner 78x150 feet, leaving a frontage of 222 feet on Baldwin Avenue. The options run for nine months, allowing ample time to finance the project, the price being such as to make it an attractive investment for the purpose.

Capital in considerable amounts has already been pledged for the enterprise. It is expected that large blocks of stock will be taken immediately by several Los Angeles men who have shown an interest in the enterprise, and it is hoped that work can be started on the site in the very near future.

Architect Arthur B. Benton of Los Angeles has been engaged for some time on the drawing of tentative plans for the hotel building. Mr. Benton is one of the best known hotel architects in California. He has designed some of the newest of the fashionable hotels and was much pleased with the possibilities of the local situation. He will have drawings ready for exhibition in a few days. The building will contain thirty or forty rooms and will be so arranged that it can be enlarged simply by adding wings.

The formation of the Sierra Madre Hotel company and the line of operations mapped out gives the best promise of solving the hotel problem which has been offered to date. With a suitable attractive, modern hotel building in Sierra Madre there will be no difficulty about securing a suitable manager who will give accommodations the equal of any to be found on the coast. When carried to completion the enterprise will prove to be of continuous and increasing benefit to the entire community. The names of the men at the head of the corporation are a sufficient guarantee that it is on a solid foundation.

OFFERS USE OF PARK SITE

Miss Hawks Offers City Use of Centrally Located Lots

For the purpose of providing some sort of park center near the business part of town Miss Frances Hawks has offered the city the use of two lots on Baldwin Avenue for a term of five years, together with water stock to provide water for gardening. The lots are just south of the telephone office and contain a handsome oak tree, which furnishes a large expanse of shade. The proposition to the city is contained in the following communication which was presented to the city trustees at their regular meeting last evening:

Sierra Madre, Cal., March 21, 1911.
To the Honorable Board of Trustees,
City of Sierra Madre,
Gentlemen:

Realizing the need for a city park and appreciating the privilege which I have of meeting this need, I wish to submit to your honorable Board the following:

I will lease to the City of Sierra Madre for the term of five years, Lots 4 and 5 of the Hawks Tract as recorded in Book 11, Page 8 of Maps, together with three shares of Water Stock of the Sierra Madre Water Co. In consideration of which, the City of Sierra Madre will agree to pay all taxes or municipal liens which may be placed against said property during the period of this lease.

This property to be used for park purposes only, it being agreed that the City of Sierra Madre shall put in such walks, flowers, shrubbery, etc., as the Park Commission may think best.

The city will also reserve the privilege of buying this property at the price of $2000 during the first year of this lease, with an additional 5 per cent added thereto for each twelve months thereafter.

If this meets with your approval, kindly have your attorney draw up the necessary papers, and oblige.

Yours respectfully
FRANCES H. HAWKS.

MERGING GAS COMPANIES

Piedmont Gas Company Becomes Part of Large Combination

The Southern Counties Gas Company of California, according to announcement made by officers of the company, has arranged to take over the Piedmont Gas Company serving Monrovia, Sierra Madre, Arcadia, Duarte and El Monte, the Covina Valley Gas Company serving Covina, Glendora, Azusa, the Orange County Gas Company serving Orange, Anaheim and Fullerton, and has acquired the gas plants of the Southern California Edison Company serving Santa Ana and Whittier.

The Southern Counties Gas Company of California is a company owned and controlled by stockholders residing in the various communities served. C. S. S. Forney is president of the company, and has been president of the Covina Valley Gas Company and of the Piedmont Gas Company. W. A. White, General Manager, has been associated with gas companies in Southern California for a number of years, and is known generally throughout the territory. F. R. Bain of Fullerton is vice president and treasurer of the company, and with the foregoing the following gentlemen are the Board of Directors: C. H. Ainley, William Garland, Frank W. Burnett, Roy Bradley Wheeler, Frank E. Miller, W. S. McFarland, F. N. Hawes is secretary of the company.

These properties will be operated in the interest of the public, according to the announcement, and with the intention of furnishing first class gas service to all who may desire it in the various communities and in the territory contiguous to the high pressure mains of the company.

TOO MUCH SHOOTING

Many complaints are heard about violation of the ordinance against shooting within the city limits. There have been some cases also of the killing of birds. Nearly all California birds are protected by state law, so it is well to be sure of the variety before firing at a bird anywhere. In some cases the offenders against the anti-shooting ordinance were unaware of the existence of such a law, though it has been on the books several years. Not only has it been a violation of the law, but much of the shooting has been extremely careless. Several persons have been frightened by the whizzing of bullets in their vicinity and some houses have been struck. The News is not making any rash statements about such a thing as the enforcement of a city ordinance, but such a thing might actually happen in which event the violators might be sorry just a little too late. Better cut it out.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Dr. George H. Cornell hopes to be able soon to resume his duties at the services of the Church of the Ascension. The regular morning services have been maintained, however, during his illness. Next Sunday the Sunday School will meet at 9:45 a. m., and there will be morning prayer and sermon at 11 a. m. The Guild will meet at the Rectory on Friday at 2:30 p. m. A full attendance is desired and strangers are most cordially invited.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR CHILDREN

BY THE FESTIVAL COMMITTEE

Competition Will Be Held for Best Collection of Wild Flowers, Ferns and Grasses

Attention of school children is called to the competition for the collection of wild flowers in connection with the Flower Festival. Now is the time to begin to gather them. The vacant lots and sidewalks are full of them all over town, while the hill sides and canyons contain new varieties in blossom every day. There will be prizes for the largest variety collected between now and April 20, for the rarest specimens, for the best collection of pressed specimens and for the largest collection gathered at the time of the Festival. These will be money prizes and well worth trying for.

Watchful eyes will make it possible to gather large collections morning and afternoon while going to and from school. The school work need not be interfered with and school children should not feel they have not the time. The education and pleasure received from the work, in addition to the prizes offered, should prove an incentive to painstaking efforts. From this time on Miss Dale of the Helping Station, corner of Highland and Auburn, will receive all wild flowers which are brought to her, and classify and register them for this competition.

It is said to be possible to collect as many as 200 varieties of flowers, ferns and grasses right in Sierra Madre during the next thirty days. The prizes offered will be announced in next week's paper and the committee hopes the school children will begin immediately to collect the flowers and begin leaving them with Miss Dale who will see they are properly taken care of.

Regular meetings of the Flower Festival Committee are being held each Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Club House. The various sub-committees are hard at work upon plans to make every detail contribute to the success of the big enterprise.

Especially is attention called to the result of the committee that exhibits of potted plants be listed with Mr. Irving N. Ward before April 1. Potted plants not listed by that time cannot be exhibited, under the rules of the committee.

No one should feel backward about listing plants for exhibition. There are classes to include the most common varieties. Geraniums, ferns, begonias, roses and other plants found in every home are desired as well as the more rare varieties. This matter should be attended to at once before it is forgotten.

Those who attended the third performance of the vaudeville program and "Trial by Jury" given for the benefit of the Board of Trade last night witnessed the best performance of the three. The audience was not so large as it should have been, considering the number of requests that had been made for a repetition, but it was none the less appreciative. Dancing was enjoyed after the performance.

District Agent W. R. Neelands of the Southern California Edison company was looking after Sierra Madre affairs yesterday. Incidentally he took occasion to correct an impression regarding lighting rates charged at the Villa. It has been generally reported that residents of Sierra Madre Villa were served from Pasadena at rates prevailing in that city, ranging from four to five cents a kilowatt. Mr. Neelands says that all the current used at the Villa is sold by his company at 10 cents, the rate charged in Sierra Madre.

Two negro men came up to the outskirts of a crowd where Senator Bailey was making a campaign speech. After listening to the speech for about ten minutes, one of them turned to his companion and asked:

"Who am dat man, Sambo?"

"Ah don't know what his name am," Sambo replied, "but he certainly do recommen' hisself mos' highly."—Success.

PERSONAL MENTION

The Bridge Whist Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Franklin P. Burch on South Figueroa street, Los Angeles, on Wednesday. Five tables were filled, several outside guests being present.

Mrs. Rowland D. Laws entertained the Five Hundred Club of Pasadena of which she is a member at her home Thursday. Luncheon was served at noon and the afternoon was devoted to cards. Her guests included Mmes. J. C. Cook, Julian Adams, William Landon, Jack Swan, of Los Angeles; Misses Louise Lacey, Beulah Haskill, Cora Hill and Florence Doolittle, of Pasadena; Mrs. Roland Adams of Sierra Madre and Miss Bonnie Rockhold of Riverside.

The marriage of Miss Jennie Lambert to Mr. Frank Gresham took place last Saturday in San Francisco. The news came as a pleasant surprise to many friends, though intimate friends of the bride had been expecting the happy event to take place for some time. Both bride and groom are well known in Sierra Madre, both being considered as Sierra Madre young people, though the groom has been away for a few years since entering business. The bride is a charming young woman of many graces of character. The groom is a member of one of the well known families of the earlier history of Sierra Madre. His father was Mr. Fred Gresham and he was a nephew of the late Dr. Arthur Gresham. The happy couple will make their home in Alameda.

Miss Annis B. Coffey entertained informally at tea Wednesday afternoon at her La Belle Avenue home in honor of her sister, Mrs. Howard H. Baldridge of Omaha, who is spending the winter at the Virginia, Long Beach. The afternoon was spent over fancy work. Delicious refreshments were served. Her guests included Mrs. Andrew Heiskell and Miss Jennie Henderson of Los Angeles, Mrs. B. H. Morgan of Duarte, Mmes. Ezra Dane, Alfred Kirkwood, Warren Greenlee of Pasadena, Mrs. William Stevenson of Lamanda Park, Mrs. Montgomery of Omaha, Mrs. Boaler of Wisconsin, Mmes. J. H. Wright, E. W. Camp, Mary Davis Goodfellow, H. I. Hawxhurst, Amelia Churchill, M. Mackerras, C. C. Montgomery, L. C. Torrance, and Misses Webster, Vannier, Hawks, Blumer, and Edith Blumer of Sierra Madre.

Mrs. William Powell was called by death very unexpectedly Tuesday. Though her health had not been good for a long time she was not thought to be in a dangerous condition and had been up and outside the house within twenty-four hours. But she failed to rally from an acute attack which seized her during the night and passed away about noon Tuesday. Funeral services were held Thursday, Rev. James M. Campbell, D. D., officiating, and the remains were laid to rest in the Sierra Madre cemetery. Mrs. Powell is survived by her husband, William Powell, and by a daughter, Miss Ethel Powell, who are called upon to mourn the second bereavement within a year, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Powell having passed away last summer. She was a sister of Mr. S. R. Norris. The family had resided in Sierra Madre about a year and a half.

BY THE WAY

For every little knock there ought to be a great big boost. Sierra Madre's charms and material advantages so far outweigh the disadvantages that no one should allow some little annoyance to obscure the vastly more numerous and pleasant features of life in Southern California's finest community.

No, Cholly, Sierra Madre does not yet own the water system, though many people seem to think so. The citizens who are stockholders in the water company have merely signified their willingness to sell the system to the city whenever the city votes bonds to raise money to pay for the system. Another point where many people are in error is in supposing the city has a bonded debt. Not so. The city has voted to issue bonds to pay for the Baldwin interest in the water of the Little Santa Anita provided the court shall award it to the city. But the case has not been decided and the bonds have not been issued. Most News readers need not be informed on these points, but it seems necessary to correct impressions existing in the minds of some. It will be well to keep the facts in mind so there can be no misunderstanding when the time comes to vote bonds to acquire the water system.

Why not have a general cleaning up day before the date of the flower festival? There will be hundreds, perhaps thousands, of visitors here during the week of April 20, 21, and 22. Coming to see a flower festival in which there will be competition for the best kept home places the visitors will expect to see a city immaculate as to streets and private property. Property owners should get busy right now and clean up their own premises. The city fathers could employ a few men and teams to good advantage in clearing up and hauling off dirt and litter carried into the streets by storm water. This sort of thing is the very least that any one can do to help make the flower show a success. Get busy.

Wouldn't it look good to see home building operations take a spurt in Sierra Madre? A home a day ought to be the normal building rate. And there is no reason why home building cannot be greatly stimulated here without resorting to booming methods of any kind. When the city taxes are assessed let the valuation on building improvements be reduced and the valuation on land be raised enough to offset that reduction. The city's revenues would not be affected and there would be a direct incentive to put money into improvements instead of keeping it tied up in idle land. It is the land which is neither cultivated nor improved which renders most Southern California towns suggestive of busted booms. The transfer of tax burdens from building improvements to land is simply a partial adoption of the single tax doctrine. The reduction in building assessments could be made gradually, say at the rate of ten per cent yearly, until the rate had reached whatever proportion seemed advisable. The City of Vancouver has recently entirely abolished taxation on buildings, having gradually reduced the rate of assessment during a period of ten years. That city was never before so prosperous, building operations have been unprecedented in magnitude, outside capital has been attracted in large amounts and labor is in great demand at high wages. Everything appears to be on a solid foundation. Some California cities have adopted the plan in part with excellent results. The plan is worth looking into for Sierra Madre.

HE KNEW HIM WELL.

But That Was No Excuse For Publicly
Insulting Him.

About the year 1847 Charles Webb
was playing at the old Chatham theater, New York, and during the engagement he became intimate with a young fish dealer named Shapleigh,
doing business in Washington market.
The fish dealer was a genius in more ways than one. In his younger days he had belonged to a juvenile dramatic company, and in his manhood, since making Webb's acquaintance, he had been behind the curtain during rehearsal and had really fancied he would "dearly love to appear just once."

Webb became satisfied that Shap-leigh could act and was willing to please him, and it so happened that an opportunity presented itself which had not been anticipated. The night of Webb's benefit had been fixed, on which occasion he was to play the character of Hamlet. The actor who had been set apart for the character of Polonius was unexpectedly called away, in which emergency Webb sought his friend at Washington market and asked him if he would help him. Shapleigh was only too glad to do it. The eventful night came, and a front box had been reserved for Shap-leigh's wife and little daughter and other relatives and friends. The house was packed, with every bit of standing room occupied. The play commenced and all went well, the beneficiary receiving round after round of applause on his first entrance, and it was the same with the kind friend who had
"so magnanimously volunteered his valuable services." The first act went off smoothly. In the second act, scene 2, Polonius is on the stage with king and queen, when to them enters Hamlet, reading from a book.
King and queen are unceremoniously
hustled out of the way. "Do you know me, my lord?" Polonius asks.
"Excellent well. You are a fishmonger." Hamlet replies, according to the text. This aroused the indignation of Shapleigh's wife, and, forgetting all else but the direct insult offered to her husband, she exclaimed loud enough to be heard in every part of the house: "Well, it ain't very nice of you, Mr. Webb, after Tom has been so good to you to go showing him up in public in that fashion! I'd have you know that a fishmonger, as you call him, is as good as an actor any day!" For a moment a wondering silence fell upon the house. That moment was caught by Shapleigh, whose wits had not forsaken him, and, looking up toward his wife's box, he said,
with an assuring nod: "It's all right, Bessie. It's so in the book!" And then, the secret out, the house "came down."

Knew What to Do.

"I hope it will be a long time before I have such another test applied to my honesty," a downtown merchant remarked as he returned from waiting on a customer.

"What was the trouble?" asked his partner.

"Those near wool suits. An old fellow came in just now and asked me
the price of one."

"Seven dollars," I told him.

"Speak louder!" he said, holding his hand behind his ear. So I yelled,
"Seven dollars!"

"Eleven dollars! Too much! I'll give you $9!" he replied.

His partner looked at the speaker in alarm.

"You—er—of course you did the right thing?"

"I guess you can depend on me to do the right thing," was the haughty retort. Then he paused. "You'd better get some dollar bills when you go to the bank," he remarked. "I just gave an old fellow our last one for change!"—Harper's Magazine.

AT THE THEATERS

Majestic

Lew Dockstader and his 20th Century Minstrels will be the attraction at the Majestic Theater next week, with the usual matinees. Dockstader is undoubtedly the most up-to-date and progressive of the minstrel managers and he usually has something new to offer his patrons and it is promised that for the present season he has made no exception to this rule. The comedian claims that his present show is minstrelsy with a plot and also makes the statement that it possesses quite as much of a story as does the average musical comedy. Of course many of the features of a minstrel show are retained and Dockstader will have many new jokes to tell and has several taking songs to offer his patrons. During the progress of the show several travesties are introduced, one of them being on the comic opera "Pinafore." The promise is given that the minstrel company contains some of the best entertainers in this particular line obtainable.

Burbank

A Byron Beasley will bid farewell to the Burbank theater at the close of the ensuing week, when the famous farce comedy, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" will be presented, Mr. Beasley playing the role of Jack Temple in which he scored heavily three years ago. The Thursday matinee will be a souvenir occasion, portraits of Mr. Beasley to be given away. In the five years he has been in Los Angeles Mr. Beasley has built up a unique reputation for general capability, which places him in a class by himself among stock actors. He has broken all precedents by jumping from heavies to leads, and playing eccentric character parts as a side line, without ever losing, but rather gaining in popularity with every change. He goes east at the conclusion of "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," to create the part of Peter Delaney in the Chicago production of "The Fox."

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" is a "truth stranger than fiction" farce. A young husband goes for a ride in a Ferris wheel. The only other occupant of the car is a strange young woman. The mechanism goes out of order and the two are forced to remain in the car all night. Mrs. Temple refuses to believe such a fantastic story, even though the young woman is left out of the account, so the husband tries fiction, and the fun begins. The farcical situations literally tumble over each other as the piece goes on its screaming way.
